Speculative Fiction: Writers Room

Group members:

Section (circle one)	12:30pm	2:00pm

Your group is the writers room for a new episode of Black Mirror.[1] Work through these steps together, pitch your episode to the class, and turn in one sheet per group at the end of class.

(1) Take turns sharing the story you wrote. For each story, write the author's name and a one-sentence summary (e.g., "A man named Neo makes a decision that changes his perspective").

Author	The story, in brief

(2) Which story will your group pitch to the class? Why that one?

[1] Based on Casey Fiesler's activity: `www.internetruleslab.com/black-mirror-writers-room`

(3) Cast your episode. Choose at least one main character and at least one supporting character, and name a real person to play each one.

Role	Character	Actor

(4) Which ethical theory might underpin your story? Circle one and briefly explain.

Deontological	Utilitarian	Virtue	Care	Other

(5) Write the log line: one or two sentences to draw the attention of the audience.

(6) Write the title of your episode.

---

(7) ☐ Take a promo picture in CDRLC or nearby (use your own camera).

(8) ☐ Create your promo slide using the link shared in class.